One of the circulars, which will be generally circulated calling ctention to the fly, is an abstract from a paper by Dr. Woods Hutchinson, prepared for the Merchants' Association of New York City, entitled "The Case of the People vs. the Fly." Dr. Hutchinson states most positively that files five and breed in dirt and filth, that they walk and feed on foodstuffs, and that they never wipe their feet. The rest he leaves to the imagination.

Just to dispet all possible doubt, plates of gelatine have been exposed where files could walk on them and then placed in an incubator.

Within forty-eight hours there was a clearly recorded track of the footprints of the files written in clumps of bacilli sown by their feet. Files have been caught in the houses of typhoid patients, put under the microscope, and their feet and stomachs were found swarming with typhoid bacilli.

It is an impossibility to distiffect the fly, nor is it practicable to teach him to wine his feet; but in the judgment of the health officials, he can be exterminated utterly. Like the mosquito, the fly can breed in only one particular kind of place, and that place is a plie of dirt, a dust bin, garbage can, heap of sweepings, sweepings uncase germs by the thousand and then files around the block to a neighbor's house, dropping in the milk can, or crawling over the meat or fruit, science has now demonstrated beyond the possibility of contradiction.

They Transmit Typhoid.

Dr. Levy says that files have actually been found gully of transmitting typhoid, tuberculosis and Aslatic cholera. For these disease they have been caught, and disease germs found upon their feet.

Dr. L. O. Howard, chief entomologist of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, has been making a sories of scientific studies, which have already demonstrated that where flies are thickest typhoid is most prevalent. There are but two remedies—the extermination of the fly by preventing its breeding, and the prevention of transmission of disease by keeping the fly absolutely out of the house.

Residences should be well-screened, and especialty should care be taken to prevent files from alighting on food supplies, either in the market stall, store, or in the home. If care is taken in this matter the danger will be minimized.
